Liberia International Christian College's Shared Values

Liberia International Christian College has a distinctive approach to education, embodying clear Christian ethical values. That is why:

- A. We challenge, inspire and support our students as individuals to grow intellectually and spiritually and achieve their best.
- B. We promote high academic standards and urge our students to develop their God-given talents through various activities.
- C. We recognize that education is a life-long process and that the more we are given, the more is expected from us.
- D. We are committed to serving the local community in which LICC is situated while striving to serve all communities, national and international.
- E. We encourage our students to refuse to accept that things have to be the way they are and urge them to believe in longer possibilities for good because education should be an instrument for reforming and reshaping society for the better.
- F. We encourage environmental awareness and diligent stewardship because it is mankind's responsibility to care for the welfare of the world God has created.
- G. We encourage creativity as a means of nurturing the human spirit and improving the quality of life.
- H. We prepare our students to be responsible citizens and leaders in a fast changing and complex world, respecting not only the value of cultural diversity and our common humanity.
- I. We affirm that education is about acquiring wisdom, humility and academic qualifications. Hence, we offer Jesus Christ as the model of what it means to grow towards our full humanity.

The President's Message Nuwoe-James Kiamu, Ph.D., Rev.

Graduation convocations are occasions to reflect, rejoice and recalibrate. While at one level they impact the particular individuals—students, who have worked hard over a specific time period and completed a prescribed course of learning, their significance extends outward to the families and communities to which these students belong. At such events, many well-wishers turn up to celebrate with the celebrants. First, the events bring pride, satisfaction and a deep sense of purpose to the students and their families. Second, they bear witness to the students' identity in the community. Third, the joy and satisfaction that the students express become a shared community, national and international experience. They lift up everyone to an extent and finally, they quickly become reasons for further reflection, decision making and implementing. The larger community in this case includes the learning institution and environment in which the students have spent some time, received instruction and are now ready to serve with diligence and humility.

That is, while the students are sitting here anticipating the journeys ahead of them, they are also fearful. They are happy for completing this leg of their journeys, but they fear a future that is hidden from them while at the same time hoping that this future will treat them with kindness and dignity. This makes the graduation an occasion for anticipation and sober reflection all wrapped up on one package. Thus, sobriety and nobility color the occasion and that is why institutions take pains to ensure that they execute the occasion with propriety.

Today by God's grace, LICC is happy to send forth 46 students who have received trainings in Agriculture, Business, Education and Theology, students with whom it has worked over the course of the least four years, preparing and arming them with knowledge and skills to glorify Christ and build their nations. We are grateful to God, the LICC Trustees Board, United Liberia Inland Church (ULIC), United Liberia Inland Church Associates and Friends (ULICAF), owners of LICC, the Government of Liberia, parents, guardians and sponsors, and our Ganta community for the privilege they have given us to discharge this awesome responsibility. "Thank You!"

We hope that this batch of graduates will embody the spirit of "cultivating a new breed of society/societal actors," the College's 2025 theme. Yes, we have set ourselves to the task of cultivating a new breed of actors in various spheres of society. Our hope and desire are that our students and graduates will turn a new page in their lives and flip the narrative of the degree holder in Liberia. While the degree, diploma or certificate as a piece of decorated paper means little outside the intrinsic value it holds because of the knowledge, skills and experience its holder assumes, a degree may represent an aspect of the totality of its holder's experiences in real time. It validates the holder's acquired specific type of knowledge necessary to perform a range of functions for the benefit of self and the community in which the holder operates. This is why LICC wants to transform the meaning and function of a degree in our society.

Wary of degree holders whose "education" has become a blight, a pathway for them to inflict all kinds of injuries on people and corrupt society, pervert justice, dash the hopes and aspirations of millions in order to steer a path of ruination and damnation for a people—all for their personal aggrandizement, LICC is charting a new course, one on which a true degree holder lives and operates in a sea of conscience and cares deeply about dignity, character, integrity, empathy for others, a good reputation over amassing wealth gained by dishonesty and bears the hopes of millions here and in the future. Such degree is worth more than a piece of paper and projects a person of hope and courage, a person who is willing to serve others more than to be served.

Cultivating a new breed of society actors anticipates intentionally growing people who think hard about the impact and consequences of their decisions and actions before they act, who take full responsibility for their actions and who take every care to do what is right because it is good to do the right thing. Degree holders who burden society are not what LICC wishes to produce.

As we as an institution and nation anticipate what is better, improved, hopeful and brighter for us and our people, we expect our students, graduates, faculty and staff and communities to consider the alternative path of creating a generation whose consciences are alive, whose ambitions are noble and free of desperation for personal gains over the common good, whose actions uplift the people, institutions and societies that make them instead of pillaging them through greed and selfishness, and whose lives count for eternity. That is something of the kind of society actors LICC desires to cultivate. I admonish us to join us create this society wherever we go.

When we achieve this goal to an extent, examination malpractices, falsifying credentials, taking bribes and extorting money and materials from people, denying justice to victims of suppression and oppression, practicing various other forms of corruption will be a thing of the past. In their place, we will have a people who are honest, trustworthy, skillful, knowledgeable, and who uphold integrity and care more about national development priorities than they are about lining their pockets. It will matter little whether they are in politics, education, national security, industry, faith, entertainment, science, medicine or any other place in society. What will matter will be the content of their character, the excellence of their persons, the authenticity of their self-expressions and the dignity of their purposes as expressed by what they say and do. Then degree education will worth the while and graduation convocations will be true occasions for happiness because through them, learning institutions will be producing the types of people society truly needs and deserves.

To our 2025 Class, KO-KWA-A'DEA, please accept the LICC Family's heartfelt congratulations as you leave the walls of this institution. Remember that you are not leaving us for good because LICC needs you and will need you more in the future. Be true and great ambassadors for Jesus Christ and LICC, and continue to join hands with us to make and leave LICC better than we met it. Always take Jesus Christ with you no matter where life places you, and strive to be that new breed of societal actors in your own spaces. Help create that society that you desire and in which you will be happy to live and hand over to your children and grandchildren. The owners of LICC along with its Board of Trustees say, "Congratulations!" Use your degrees as keys to unlock more doors of privilege set before you, then walk through those doors and help reshape society for the better.

On our part, we will pray for and with you that the Lord will lead, guide and use you for His glory and honor. Every so often, find time to stop by and check in with us, and see how LICC is doing. After graduation, you will have an even more defined responsibility to make LICC that sustainable school with deep, long-term relationships as our vision statement states. We will do our best to follow you up and know what is happening in your lives outside there. LICC's doors remain open to you so come back whenever you need us.

May the God of peace, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, make us perfect in every good work to do His will, working in us that which is well pleasing in His sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen. (Heb 13:21)

ABOUT LIBERIA INTERNATIONAL CHRISTIAN COLLEGE (LICC)

LICC is a gift from God through Liberian indigenes in mainly the United States and elsewhere in the West, who desire to collaborate with Liberians at home to rebuild Liberia by investing in excellent, high standard tertiary education. The National Commission on Higher Education (NCHE) has accredited this faith-based higher education institution in Royal Community, Ganta, Nimba County, to operate the programs it operates (Agriculture, Business, Education, Nursing and Theology).

Liberia International Christian College (LICC) sits on 22 acres of land and provides a learning environment where students can experience the transforming power of God's love, nurture, hope, develop Christ-like character, and equip themselves to serve Christ and build their nations.

LICC is accessible, offers excellent education, affordable tuition and fees, and provides work study opportunities to needy students. The College offers a distinctive blend of academic, ministry opportunities through caring faculty in a Christian atmosphere that emphasizes openness and a spirit of conciliation.

LICC started its full curriculum of classes on March 2, 2009, and offered Associate degree programs in Pastoral Theology/Mission, Education, Business Management and Accounting. Later in 2013, it added General Agriculture and in 2025, General Nursing.. In addition, the College runs short-term certificate courses in General Agriculture and Computer Science.

In 2020, LICC received a two-year probation accreditation from NCHE to offer Bachelor Degrees in Agriculture, Business, Education and Theology with specialties. In August of 2024, the Liberian Board of Nursing and Midwifery a two-year accreditation to the College to offer the Bachelor of Science in Nursing.

The College is exploring program addition possibilities including the Master's degree track.

LICC is affiliated with United Liberia Inland Church (ULIC), United Liberia Inland Church Associates, Friends (ULICAF) in the USA, the Association of Liberian Universities, the Association of Evangelicals of Liberia (AEL) and the Liberia Association of Theological Institutions (LATI).

LICC'S ACADEMIC AND NON-ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS AND PROGRAMS

LICC runs five bachelor's degree awarding academic programs. They are:

Agriculture Department—General Agriculture

Business Department—Accounting and Management

Education Department—Geography, History, Language Arts and Mathematics

Theology Department—Pastoral Theology and Mission

Nursing Department—General Nursing

LICC'S PROFESSIONAL AND NON-ACADEMIC PROGRAMS INCLUDE:

Diploma in Information Technology (IT)

Women and Girls Resource Center

Certificate/Diploma in Agriculture

LICC'S FOCUS AND STRATEGIES

We focus on mobilizing, recruiting, training and releasing highly inspired individuals who are willing to think critically, work diligently adopt strategically, and transform their communities and nations significantly, no matter what discipline they pursue. We do these through intentional training curricula that prioritize theory and practice, as it does community, environment and fellowship.

LICC's Vision Statement: "A sustainable school with deep, long-term relationships among administration, faculty, students, alumni, and global partners."

LICC's Mission Statement: "We equip people with the knowledge to serve Christ and build their nations."

LICC's Core Values: Christ-Centeredness, Cultural Engagement, Church Connectedness, Committed Faculty, and Comprehensive Biblical Education.

LICC's Culture: We are building a culture driven by five key elements— Godliness," "Excellence," "Accountability," "Resourcefulness," and "Stewardship/Service" (GEARS).

THE LICC ODE

From the heart of Gompa City,
On gentle slopes of Royal Community
Stands a maiden, hopeful, joyful and diligent,
A gift from God so benevolent

To all passers-by, young and old,
Who stride along firm and bold:
And to all admirers, male and female,
She extends gracious embrace in scale

The simple she calls to learn,
The Proud she humbles to yearn;
The lost she summons the straight way to take,
The saved she pleads a way to make

What sumptuous feast she prepares,
And the wayfarer she dares'
Beckoning a starving thong to dine,
All at no peril to any but great pleasure from the Divine

Come one, come all!
To Royal community and stand tall;
Come to the Royal Maiden'
For rest and release from your burden
Come to Liberia international Christian college!
Come acquire knowledge;
Get understanding and buy wisdom,
For by them is true freedom.
LICC is here to serve
To give what you deserve
